Chicago, Oct. 18.—Sidney Hatch of Chicago, winner of a score of marathon races, shattered all records for long distance running today, when he finished a ninety mile run from Milwaukee to Chicago in 14 hours, 50 minutes, and 30 seconds. Official figures on the run as given out by officials of the Mystic Athletic Club, showed that Hatch ran 95.7 miles in 14 hours, 50 minutes, thus lowering the previous record made in 1907 by Alfred Corey, by four hours and seven minutes.

Hatch did not stop for food, and ran all the way, finishing in good condition. He left Milwaukee at eight o'clock last night. The record will be accepted as official by the Central Amateur Athletic Union, which had representatives with Hatch. Hatch was scheduled to run around a track in Grant park on Chicago's lake front to complete the one hundred miles, but abandoned the plan when officials of the Central A. A. U. informed him that a hundred mile record made under the circumstances, would not be accepted.

DEFENDS BLIND AT STATE CONFERENCE

Sheboygan, Oct. 18.—"There are more blind seeing people than there are actual blind people," said Dr. J. T. Hooper, superintendent of the Wisconsin school for the blind at Janesville, at the opening session of the state conference of charities and corrections this morning.

The blind have no greater handicap than the attitude of the seeing people toward them. A blind person is just as much a normal human being as the seeing person."

Dr. Hooper denounced the erroneous impression of many people that the blind are feeble minded, saying that it is not eyes, ears or hands that make the world go, but minds.

JAPANESE WOULD BE FRIENDS WITH U. S.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) St. Louis, Oct. 18.—Japanese people feel that the best interests of their country depend on the preservation of friendly relations with the United States, the Right Rev. H. St. George Tucker, Bishop of Kyoto, told delegates to the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church today.

Bishop Tucker spoke at a joint session of the two houses comprising the convention reviewing the scope and methods of the church's foreign mission work. "I have had large opportunities," he said, "and I have never heard the opinion that there is any essential conflict between the interest of Japan and America expressed."

"The only possible cause of trouble would be in a conviction that the Japanese that they were being unjustly discriminated against, and their national honor was injured. But this is a fair, unprejudiced treatment of the Japanese at present residents of America."

TREASURER PROVES PHILIPP IS SAVING

Madison, Wis., Oct. 18.—Statements that the general fund in the state treasury is bankrupt and that the administration of Governor E. L. Philipp has failed to reduce the cost of government were proved to be untrue on Tuesday by State Treasurer Henry Johnson.

After making a comparative statement of the general fund for 1915 and 1916, Mr. Johnson said in a special statement, "There is and will be sufficient money in the general fund to meet all obligations until taxes are received in 1917."

The statement, concluded as follows: "There is no doubt that the Philipp administration: There has been a decrease in expenditures without destroying the efficiency of any of the departments. The cost of the state government in 1915 was $15,980,063.52, while this year it is only $15,218,205.99."

The part of the state treasurer's report that is under attack is the statement that the secretary of the general fund is not authorized by law, but is the amount ever so small.

General fund for 1915, $3,372,742.40. In that year $1,000,000 was collected from counties for good roads and placed in the general fund, and all the railroad taxes were paid in that fund.

Terminal tax paid to cities where terminals are located.

EAST WILL GIVE VOTE TO HUGHES

REPORT FROM NEW ENGLAND MOST ENCOURAGING ACCORDING TO REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS.

WILL BE A LANDSLIDE

Maine Paved the Way for Swinging Into Line of the Various States Is the Result of Careful Investigation Claimed.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Boston, Mass., Oct. 18.—Four years ago, Mr. Wilson carried every New England State except Vermont. He will not carry a single New England state this year, according to soundings taken by republican, democratic and non-partisan agents interested in ascertaining the drift of the voters of this corner of the country. Maine pointed the way for New England and the majority there will be increased in favor of Mr. Hughes. Sympathy for the Allies is very strong throughout New England, and Mr. Wilson's managers hoped to hold this element of the vote. Mr. Wilson calls "hyphenated" Americanism, and by his recent telegram to Mr. French, minister of New York, in which he stated that Mr. O'Leary was associated with traitorous elements in the nation. Both of these tricks, however, have lost touch with the voters in New England because they made him thousands of enemies in the large centers of Irish-born population, and failed to make native-born Americans forget what he was doing to the welfare of his whole foreign policy."

RISK LIVES IN LEAP TO ESCAPE STRIKERS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Chippewa Falls, Oct. 18.—About midnight six Greek strikebreakers, who were marooned last evening in the L. W. Though one of them received a badly strained back, Pickets guarding the factory all night were surprised by this move. The Greeks were leaving, equipped with their Chippewa river, taking a railroad train toward St. Paul.

The strike situation remains unchanged. The factory is closed indefinitely.

MUCH ERROR SHOWN IN TRACK SCALES BY INVESTIGATION

U. S. Officials Find 47% to be Incorrect—Makes Great Difference in Wheat Shipments.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Milwaukee, Oct. 18.—A large percentage of the railroad track scales used almost exclusively in the weighing of grain in Milwaukee, are shown to be incorrect after an investigation, according to a statement issued today by Fred P. Downing, chief inspector of weights and measures for Wisconsin.

The result obtained by the application of the scale test car of the United States bureau of standards during the last three weeks, show that of the thirty-two railroad track scales tested, forty-seven per cent were found to be incorrect. Thirty-two of the track scales tested, are used almost exclusively in the weighing of grain. Of these scales, thirty-six per cent were found to be incorrect.

It is estimated the Milwaukee elevators will have over 100,000,000 bushels of grain this season. An error of one-tenth of one per cent in track scales used in weighing of this grain, would mean either a loss or gain of 100,000 bushels.

The errors found in coal scales were much higher than the errors found in the grain track scales.

As a result of the investigation in Milwaukee a bill, it is expected, will be introduced at the coming session of the legislature, requiring all track scales to be tested by the state.

VILLA'S MONEY WILL REACH PAR, MAYBE?

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) El Paso, Tex., Oct. 18.—Francisco Villa's money worth more now than it was when Villa resided in the state capital at Chihuahua City, and the United States army is only responsible for its increase.

Sent down to the border with the expectation of taking part in the chase, the national guardmen from all parts of the country, have been purchasing Villa's currency from local dealers as souvenirs of their visit to the border, and have been hoarding this paper money home to relatives and friends. The result has been a great demand for money which Villa ordered printed on a hand press in Chihuahua City.

It was in power his money reached high water mark of six cents American money for one dollar Villa money.

But this was exceptional and before Villa was forced to evacuate Chihuahua state, it was selling at a few cents for $1,000 of his money. Now the market price is $600 of his money for $1,000 of United States currency.

Because of the demand, dealers in the border leader's money have been having a hard time getting enough to supply the demand.

One of Villa's generals is said to have recently sold 1,000,000 to a local broker and that consideration has been sold to the soldiers on the border.

Great quantities of the Villa money have been shipped to Chicago, New York and other cities of the United States, where it is used for the purpose of buying goods and being printed on the face of the money.

It is estimated that $100,000,000 worth of this currency has been printed and is in circulation throughout the United States and elsewhere.

LANGE, CITY COUNSEL; COMMISSION SELECTS ATTORNEY YESTERDAY

Wine Office of Municipal's Legal Light Over F. C. Burnes, Only Other Candidate Mentioned.

Justice of Peace Charles H. Lange yesterday afternoon was selected by the Janesville commission as city attorney. Mr. Lange's term of office commences immediately. He assumes the work of legal counsel for the city.

CHARLES H. LANGE

and fills the vacancy made through the resignation of W. H. Dougherty who has entered into law partnership with Thos. S. Nolan.
Little difficulty was experienced in choosing Mr. Lange. The candidates had narrowed down to two, Frederick C. Burpee, being the other attorney with Mr. Lange who had final consideration by the commission. As late as yesterday noon it was an undecided matter as to which lawyer would be appointed. Mayor James A. Fathers and Commissioner Roy M. Cummings were backing Mr. Lange while Commissioner Peter J. Goodman was advancing the cause of Burpee.

On an informal ballot when the matter came up at the meeting the vote was two for Lange and one for Burpee. Commissioner Goodman voiced his acquiescence of the vote. He then moved that the ballot be made formal, it was, and Mr. Lange was declared elected.

Mr. Lange is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin law school, class of 1908. Immediately upon finishing he went into the office of Olin Avery and O. A. Oestreich of the law firm of Jeffris, Mount, Avery and Oestreich of this city started previous to this connection with the local group. After a year there Mr. Lange came to Janesville and for a year was with Charles Hemmingsway, engaged in the practice of law for two years as a partner in the law firm of Charles L. Fifeild and Charles L. Fifeild. Mr. Lange taught school for two years, one year in the Wausau high school, in 1908 he was elected justice of the peace in the town of Janesville. Fifeild was judge of the municipal court he made Mr. Lange his deputy judge. Judge H. L. Maxfield did the same.

Mr. Lange was born at Monticello. He is a graduate of the Monticello high school and also of the state normal school at Platteville.

The city attorney's candidacy for the office has received the backing of the Rock County Bar association, of which he is a member, and which organization, almost as a whole, were active in his securing the appointment.

While urged by many local lawyers not to give up the office of justice of the peace, Mr. Lange this morning stated that whether or not he would continue in this capacity was a question with him. The work would not conflict in any way with his duties for the city and as a result, some attorneys are disposed to have the city attorney continue to preside over one of the two justice courts.

The commission granted permission to the Wisconsin telephone company to extend its underground conduits on North Main street from Prospect avenue to Fourth avenue and on Court street from Main to Park and with laterals on Park street.

Commissioner of streets Goodman was ordered to repair with gravel, Rock street between Jackson and Franklin and North street between Academy and Park avenue.

JANESVILLE BAKERS BOOST BREAD 1 CENT

Advanced Cost of Materials and Production Makes Increase Necessary—Ten Cent Leaves Unaffected.

Because of the tremendous advance in the cost of raw materials the Janesville bakers of Janesville have found it necessary to fall in line with the majority throughout the country in boosting the price of bread. The advance is not as large as it has been in many cities, since only the five cent leaves are affected; beginning with tomorrow these will sell for six cents.

The ten cent leaves remain the same, and the bakers are most urgent in their request to the public to purchase the ten cent loaf in preference to the smaller ones. On these the cost of production is cut down so that a profit can be realized at the old price. The labor on the larger loaves amounts to but little more, and they can be baked for the same price as the smaller ones. The quality of the bread in the ten cent size is far superior, due to certain factors that have been lost in the process of baking. Also there is proportionately less crust on the large size loaf.

"The price of baking has gone up so much during the last year," said Mr. Benson of Benson & Lane, bakers, "that we find it utterly impossible to produce bread for the same price. There is hardly a commodity used in baking that is not at least 25 per cent higher than last year. For example, that we bought last year for $5.00 a barrel now costs us $9.20 to $6.00. Sugar costs a third more. Malt has advanced twenty-five per cent. The price of wheat is also higher. All canned fruits used in making pies, and many of the cakes and cookies, have gone up tremendously. Even the paper used to wrap the loaves is at least one hundred percent in the last year."

Paul Colvin at the Colvin bakery stated that the advance was in many ways into the process of baking. In that it would influence them to buy the larger loaves, in which was better quality as well as more bread. "The bakers regret that the steady advance in the cost of materials has made it necessary to increase the price; but they are emphatic in their plea to the public to purchase the larger loaves. 'Since the cost of economy at any time,' said one baker today, 'and now that the price has gone up people may realize this fact and stop buying that size.'"

CHINA NOW HAS JAP MILITARY ADVISOR

Peking, Oct. 18.—China's appointment of Major-General Nobuzumi Aoki as first class military advisor to the Chinese government has provoked much comment in the Chinese press, and came as a great surprise to foreigners living in China. Major-General Aoki will receive a salary of two thousand dollars Mexican per month, together with an allowance for traveling expenses.

Commenting sarcastically upon the appointment, the Peking Daily News says: "We heartily thank our Japanese neighbor for lending us the services of so valuable a general of the Japanese army to China for the reorganization of the Chinese army. The next step is the purchase of Japanese arms and munitions required by the Chinese army from Japan, or the establishment of a Sino-Japanese arsenal in this country under Japanese control."

After last year, but refused by the late President, Yuan Shi-kai even under the threat of an ultimatum delivered at Peking on May 7, 1915.

Major-General Aoki was assigned to Shanghai as an attaché of the Japanese consulate there in the heat of the recent revolutionary trouble, many Chinese papers charged that he was the forerunner of a Japanese military movement designed to control the Yangtze valley, and his employment as an advisor to the Chinese government is regarded with great apprehension by Chinese journals which demand information as to why China should place itself in Japanese hands by the employment of the distinguished Japanese officer.

Major-General Aoki was the commandant at Port Arthur in the Russo-Japanese war, and is probably the most famous soldier in Japan. Several occasions he has been attached to the Japanese legation at Peking, and is an expert in Chinese art.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "heavy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

CHAPTER III.

Joy In an Old Orchard.

The following morning was a balmy and exquisite bit of May and Bert had hustled me off immediately after breakfast to meet Harb under Howard whom, by some rural wireless, he had already summoned.

As we walked down the road, I glanced toward my lone pine, and saw my horse and Mike's hitched to the plow, with Joe driving and Mike holding the handles. Across the green pasture, between the road and the bay field, already four rich brown furrows were shining up to the sun.

At the house we found awaiting a strange-looking man, small, wrinkled, unkempt, with a discouraged mustache and a nose of a decidedly brighter hue than the rest of his countenance. He was tapping at the sills of the house.

"How about it, Harb? Cement?" said Bert.

Harb Cider nodded to me, with a keen glance from his little, bloodshot eyes.

"Yep," he said, "Stucco over it. Brick underneath. Be ez good ez noo. Go inside."

We stepped upon the side porch. Bert handing me the key, and I opening the door of my new dwelling with a secret thrill. Harb Cider at once began on the kitchen door, ripping up a plank to examine the timbers beneath.

We crossed the hall to the south side, where there were two corresponding rooms. Here, as on the other side, the chimney and fireplaces were on the inside walls, and the mantels were of a simple but very good colonial pattern, though they had been browned by smoke and time to a dirt color.

"Now I want these two rooms made into one," said I. "I want one of the doors into the hall closed up, and a glass door cut out of the south side to a pergola veranda. Can you do it?"

Harb examined the partition. He climbed on a box which we dragged in, and ripped away plaster and wood-work ruthlessly, both at the top and at places on the sides, all without speaking a word.

"Yep," he said finally, "ot yer don't mind a big cross-beam showin'. She's solid oak. Yer door, though, 'll have to be double, with a beam in the middle."

"Fine!" I cried. "One to go in by, one to go out. Guests please keep to the right."

"Hey ter after yer chimney," he added, "or yer'll hev two fireplaces."

"Fine again!" cried I. "A long room with two fireplaces, and a double-faced bookcase coming out at right angles between them, with two settles below it, one for each fireplace! Better than I'd dreamed!"

"Suit yerself," said Harb. "My front doorway had once been a thing of beauty, with two little panel windows at the sides, and above all, on the outside, a heavy, hand-carved broken pediment, like the top of a Gygis or Winthrop highboy. Harb looked at it with admiration gleaming in his eyes. "I'd rather restore this than all the rest of the job," he said, and his ugly, rum-soaked little face positively shone with enthusiasm.

"Go ahead," said I; "only I want the new steps of brick, widely spaced, with a lot of cement showing between. I'm going to terrace it here in front, too—a grass terrace for tea feet out."

"That's right, that's right!" he exclaimed. "Now I'll go order the lumber an' bring yer the estimate tomorrow."

"Seems to me the usual proceeding would be the other way around!" I gasped.

"Well, yer want me ter do the job, don't yer? Or don't yer?" he said brusquely.

"Of course, of course!" I amended hastily. "Go ahead!"

Harb climbed into a broken-down wagon, and disappeared. "Don't you worry," said Bert. "I'll see he treats yer right."

"It isn't that," I said sadly. "It's that I've just remembered I forgot to include any painters' bills in my own estimate."

speechless pity for a moment. Then he said slowly: "Wal, I'll be swizzled! Wait till I tell maw! An' her always stickin' up fer a college education!"

"Just for that, I'll show you!" cried I. "I never trimmed an apple tree in my life, but I'm going to work on this orchard, and I'm going to save it, all myself. It will be better than yours in three years."

"Go to it," laughed Bert. "Come back for dinner, though. Neow I'll drive over ter the depot an' git yer freight. They telephoned this mornin' it had come."

"Good!" I cried. "You might bring me a bag of cement, too, and a gallon of carbolic acid."

"Ye ain't tired o' life so soon, be yer?"

"No," said I, "but I'm going to show you rubes how to treat an orchard."

Bert went off laughing, and presently I saw him driving toward town with his heavy wagon. I walked up to the plateau field to greet Mike. As I crested the ridge the field lay before me, the great, lone pine standing sentinel at the farther side, and half of it was frail, young green, and half of it, shining brown.

"She plows tough, sor," said Mike, as the panting horses paused for breath. "but she'll harrow down good. Be the seed pertaters come yit?"

"Bert has gone for them," said I. "Let me hold the plow once."

"It ain't so axy as it looks," said Mike.

"I'll do it if I haven't a rib left," said I grimly.

And I did it. My first full furrow looked like the track of a snake under the influence of liquor, but I reversed the plow and came back fairly straight. I was beginning to get the hang of it. My next furrow was respectable, but not deep. On this return trip the sweat was starting from my forehead, and the smell of the horses and of the warm, fresh-turned earth was strong in my nostrils. I didn't look at my plow. I was proud at what I had done, and my muscles glowed in the toll. Again I swung the plow around, and drove it across the field, feeling the reluctant grass roots fighting every muscle of my arms.

"There," said I, triumphantly, "you plow all the rest as deep as that!"

"Begobs, ye'd all right!" cried Mike.

I went back again down the slope with all the joy of a small boy and descended upon the orchard. I had a couple of bulletins on pruning in my pocket, with pictures of old trees remorselessly headed down. I took a fresh look at the pictures, reread some of the text where I had marked it, and tackled the first tree, carefully repeating to myself: "Remove only a third the first year, remove only a third the first year."

Thus, I decided, quite incorrectly, not to refer to dead wood. By the time I had the dead wood cut out of that first old tree, and all the water sprouts removed (as I recalled my grandfather used to call them), which didn't seem necessary for new bearing wood, the poor thing began to look naked. On one side an old water spout or sucker had achieved the dignity of a limb and shot far into the air. I was up in the tree carefully heading this back and out when Bert came driving by with his wagon heaped to overflowing.

"Hi!" he called, "yer tryin' to kill them trees entire!"

I got down and came out to the road. "You're a fine man and a true friend, Mr. Temple," said I, "but I'm going to be the doctor for this orchard. A chap's got to have some say for himself, you know."

"Well, they ain't much good, any how, them trees," said Bert cheerfully.

We now fell to unloading the wagon. We opened up the woodsheds and storehouse behind the kitchen, stowed in the barrels of seed potatoes, the fertilizers, the various other seeds, the farm implements, sprayers, and so on.

The botched frames and sashes were put away for future use, as it was too late to need them now. The horse hoe Bert had not been able to bring on this trip. Next we got my books and furniture into the house or shed, and, tired, hot and dirty, we drove on up the road for dinner. As we passed the upper field, I saw that the plowing was nearly done. The brown furrows had already lost their gloss, as my hands had already lost their whiteness.

"Well, I'm a farmer now!" said I, surveying my soil-encrusted boots and grimy clothes.

"Yer on the way, anyhow," said Bert. "But yer'll have ter cultivate that field hard, seedin' how it oughter hev been plowed last fall."

That afternoon I went back to my orchard, got out my shiny and sharp new double-edged pruning saw, and saved till both arms ached.

As I worked, I thought how this orchard must be trimmed and cleaned up first, but how the fine planting weather was upon us, too, and I ought to be getting my garden seeds in. It was to have any flowers. I thought, also, of all my manuscripts to be read. A nervous fit seized me, and I worked frantically.

That night I managed to keep awake till eleven, and got some work done. I also rose at a compromise hour of six in the morning, and worked another hour, almost catnapping with what should have been my daily stint. But I realized that hereafter I could not work on the farm all day. I must give up my mornings to my manuscript reading.

"Well," thought I, "I'll do it—as soon as the orchard is finished."

As soon as the orchard was finished! I stood amid the litter I had made on the ground, and reflected. I had completed the preliminary trimming of one row and part of a second. There were still over two rows and a half to do. And the worst trees were in those rows, at that. After they were trimmed, there was all the litter to clear out, and the stubs to be painted, and cement work to be done.

"Good gracious!" thought I. "If I do all that, when will I plant, when will I make my lawn?"

Were you ever lost in the woods, so that you suddenly felt a mad desire to rush blindly in every direction, helpless, bewildered, with a horrid sensation that your heart has gone down somewhere into your abdomen? That is the way I suddenly felt toward my farm. I couldn't afford to employ more labor. Besides, I didn't want to. I wanted to do the work myself. But there was so much to do!

Have you ever watched a small boy picking berries? He never picks a bush clean, but rushes after this or that big cluster of fruit which strikes the eye, covering half an acre of ground while you, perhaps, are stripping a single clump of bushes. And he is usually amazed when your pall fills quicker than his. Alas! I fear I was much like that small boy during my first season on the farm, or at any rate during the first month or two. There was little "efficiency" in my methods—but, oh, much delight!

As I had planned to put my garden coldframes along the south wall of the kitchen, I decided to make my temporary seedbeds there. Mike assented to the plan as a good one, and I had him dump me a load of manure, while I brought earth from the nearest point in the garden, spaded up the soil, mixed in the garden earth and dressing, and then worked and reworked it with a rake, and finally with my hands.

Ah, the joy of working earth with your naked hands, making it ready for planting! The ladies I had seen in their gardens always wore gloves. Even my mother, I recalled, in her little garden, had always worn gloves. Surely, thought I, they miss something—the cool, moist feel of the loam, the very sensations of the seeds themselves. At four o'clock I had my bed ready, and I got my seed packets, and sorted them in a tin tobacco box, and began to sow the seeds. The directions which I read with scrupulous care always said, "Press the earth down firmly with a board." I was working with a flat mason's trowel, so I got up and found a board. It wasn't half so easy to work with, but I was taking no chances!

Mike and Joe were unhitching the horse from the barrow as I finished. The great, brown slope of the vegetable garden, lying away from the house toward the ring of southern hills, was ready for planting. There was my farm, thence would come my profits—if profits there should be. But just at that moment the little strip of soaked seedbed behind me was more important. It stood for the color box with which I was going to paint, for the fragrant pigments out of which I should create about my dwelling a dream of gardens.

"After all," I thought, "a country place is but half realized without its garden, even though it be primarily a farm, and the richness of country living is but half fulfilled unless we become painters with shrub and tree and flower. I cannot draw, nor sing, nor play. Perhaps I cannot even write. But surely I can express myself here, about me, in color and landscape charm, and not be any the worse farmer for that. I have my work; I shall write; I shall be a farmer; I shall be a gardener—an artist in flowers; I shall make my house lovely within; I shall live a rich, full life. Surely I am a happy a fortunate man!"

THE MAY APPLE

(By L. H. Smith, M. D.)

The public generally have a wholesome fear of dosing themselves with strong mineral purgatives, such as calomel or mercury. For promoting the appetite and digestion and to prevent or cure that "dark brown taste" in mouth, the coated tongue, the sallow complexion, and bad breath, you should occasionally, and at least once a week, take a pleasant laxative or cathartic. Such a one is made up of the Mayapple, the dried juice of the leaves of aloes, and the root of jalap, made into a tiny pellet and coated with sugar. It was first put in ready-to-use form by Dr. Pierce nearly 50 years ago, and will almost always cure the inactive liver and biliousness. Insist on getting Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—there are none so good.

MOTHERS OF WISCONSIN.

Stevens Point, Wis.—"I have received great benefit from the use of Doctor Pierce's medicines. I took the 'Favorite Prescription' with each of my three children and at these times, my sickness was very slight and my children were all healthy and strong and I have always been in the best of health myself. Dr. Pierce's medicines were our family medicines at home and I know they were good. I can highly recommend the 'Prescription' from actual use. There is no better medicine for weak women. I shall be glad to answer any inquirer if stamped envelope is enclosed."—Mrs. Janett Flesch, 223 Madison street.

American who wants a congressional seat has to "run" for it."

"Willie, what did you tell the trunkmaker yesterday when sent you around there to tell him to hurry up the trunk I had ordered?"

"I told him to send the trunk."

"But I must have a strap with it. He didn't send the strap!"

"No father," said Willie sweetly. "I told him I thought you hadn't better have any strap."

A black storm had come up suddenly. Great crashes of thunder were followed by a rattling shower of hailstones as big as marbles. Little Edna clung to her nurse in fright.

"Never mind, dear," said the nurse, "God will take care of us."

"Then why is He frowning fings down at us like this?" asked the child soberly.

The teacher was instructing her pupils in the rudiments of the English language.

"Pietro," she said, "make a sentence using the word 'indisposition.'"

Pietro, who was a pugilistic turn, assumed an aggressive attitude and announced:

"When youse wants to fight, you stands in dis position."

Bay Rum Island's Main Export.

The cultivation of the bay tree and the extraction of the oil from its leaves provides for the island of St. John, Danish West Indies, its most important industry; and the distillation of this oil and its subsequent manufacture into bay rum furnishes for the sister island of St. Thomas its only article of local manufacture and the most important of all the exports.

Some parties broke into the house of Mr. Langley, near the foot of Main street and stole some clothing and a diary containing a number of accounts. The thieves will confer a favor on the owner by returning them. A suit is now pending before Justice Patten, in which is involved the question of the payment of the city tax on the Conrad estate. The parties interested refuse to pay the tax on the ground that the assessment was illegal. A summons was issued and served citing the parties to appear before the justice and show cause why the payment of the tax is refused. The case will not be finished until tomorrow.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct. 18, 1876.—The flouring mills in this city are doing a prosperous business this season.

The moulders from the Harris Works went to Beloit today to play a game of baseball with the moulders of that city.

Burr Robbins' entire show arrived in the city last night. Notwithstanding the large force of help which was disbanded here, the order preserved among them was remarkably good.

Every republican in the city should go to Lappin's hall this evening and hear Mr. Williams' speech. There are some questions on which he will speak that every voter should hear discussed.

Mr. Blount will be the democratic nominee for the assembly. Of course he don't want it (3) but that makes no difference to him. He sometimes calls it a sacrifice to his personal interest for office.

Some parties broke into the house of Mr. Langley, near the foot of Main street and stole some clothing and a diary containing a number of accounts. WITHINGTON SEES VICTORY SATURDAY; PREPARES FOR STAGG

Badger Coach Will Use Few Regulars Against Indians — Strengthens Fore Wall For Maroons

Madison, Wis., Oct. 18. — Withington, taking the game with the Huskies Indians last night, as a result of his victory, has been selected to play Saturday at Chicago on the following week. The game Saturday should be a good one for the Badgers if they can perform like they did against South Dakota. Withington failed to show any amount of class against Notre Dame when they were defeated by the score of 26 to 0.

This afternoon Withington spent the time perfecting a defense for the stopping of the Maroon attack. "Old Man" Stagg is a veteran at the use of the open style of play while the Badgers have had little chance to play against a team using the forward pass. Lawrence and South Dakota used the air game for gains less than six inches. The Badgers will need plenty of work to develop a defense for the stopping of the open work of Chicago. Due to the presence of scouts of conference schools at the first two Wisconsin games, Stagg Withington did not allow his men to use any new plays but resorted to straight football tactics to gain their victories. Secret practices will be held every afternoon for the next two weeks, drilling the squad on the forward pass both offensively and defensively. Tackling, the only regular event, and all efforts from the South Dakota game, was in a suit this afternoon and took his place at quarterback. "Moore" Gardner, veteran of two years and who was ineligible for the first few weeks of practice, was promoted to the first squad this afternoon and took a place at guard. He was sent to the second team for a week to get hardened before Withington put him on squad A. Withington made the statement today that his team would not be incapacitated for the big homecoming game with Chicago. In previous years, about this time, many of the men were on the hospital list but Withington has been very lucky in having all of the men in the pink of condition. Captain Meyers and Kieckhefer, the only two on the injured list last week, are ready for work again. Herb Cramer, a candidate for end who has been sick for three weeks, will not get back to work for several days.

Eller, the Janesville player, is performing wonderfully this week at fullback and will undoubtedly play more than half of the game Saturday. His weakness on the defense has been corrected by the coaches so that he is giving Olson and Simpson a hard race for their places. His acclimating of the forward pass is also worthy of mention.

Baseball managers have been worrying about second base more this past season than other positions. There have been more shifts to strengthen the play around second than any other sack. The season before first base gave them all the trouble and before then it was the catcher's department. Next season it's likely that they'll have third base problems to fret about.

It is probable that Bill Brennan will come back into major league circles next season. There has been complaint over the officiating in big league circles this season and many have wondered why a man like Bill Brennan should be working in the bushes while such dolts were working in the big leagues. Brennan did good work for the Three-I league last summer.
